

Name: Virginia Loperena

Role: Consultant

Education: Bachelors of Arts in Philosophy from Harvard University

Sectors: nonprofit, corporate social responsibility

Specialties: education, community development, fundraising, culture building, strategic communications

Professional Experience: Virginia has specialized in grant writing and fundraising since graduating from Harvard University in 2013. She has raised more than $5MM for organizations spanning various industries, including Bank Street College of Education and Habitat for Humanity New York City.

Affiliations: Harvard Club of New York City

Personal Interests: reading, running, gardening, and walking with her dog, Mustard

Passion for Social Impact: Virginia believes that the solutions to today's challenges must be community-led and incorporate an intersectional, social justice lens. Among the issues she is most passionate about are racial equity and justice, immigrant rights, and prison abolition.

